

GUARD BODY ALL THE TIME

Impressive Scene in the Bed Chamber of the Late Pontiff, Leo XIII.

CARDINALS MEET

Hold the First Congregation of the Interregnum This Morning in Consistory Chapel.

(Special By Scripps-Meltzer.) Rome, July 21.—The Cardinals in Rome assembled in the Consistory chapel this morning and held the first congregation of interregnum. Previous to the assembling the cardinals visited the remains of the Pope in the Holy chamber.

Noble Guard
The remains are protected by a guard of nobles and the scene in the death chamber is most impressive. He lies on a couch covered with a robe brocaded with the insignia of his office with a crucifix between his thin fingers.

Chant Continuously
Penitential chants continuously a requiem to the dead. Cardinal Oreglia in capacity of camerlengo, viewed the remains earlier and found the face greatly sunken and disfigured. Afterwards he signed papers certifying his death.

Oreglia in Charge
Tuesday the sacred college of cardinals will assemble for the impressive ceremony of officially pronouncing Pope Leo dead. After this sad function has been performed the body will be taken to the small throneroom, adjoining the death chamber, where it will be embalmed. The funeral ceremonies will extend over nine days, the remains being removed to the cathedral of St. Peter's, where they will lie in state. The ultimate resting place of the dead pontiff will be in the magnificent basilica of St. John the Lateran.

Closes the Vatican.
Cardinal Oreglia's first act was to instruct Monsignore Righi, master of ceremonies, to send the Swiss guard from the Clementine hall, to close all the entrances to the vatican and dismiss everyone from the death chamber, the body being intrusted to the Franciscan penitentialists.

Temporary Head Unpopular.
Meantime events of momentous importance to Catholic Christendom were occurring. The death of Pope Leo meant the passing of the supreme power into the hands of the sacred college of cardinals as its temporary custodian during the interregnum.

The perfect administrative machinery of the church provided against the slightest interruption of the governing authority. As the senior member of the sacred college, Cardinal Oreglia, to whom the pope solemnly confided the interests of the church, has now become the exponent of the cardinals until Pope Leo's successor has been elected. This has brought forth Cardinal Oreglia as the striking personality of the hour.

The cardinal is the exact antithesis of Pope Leo, having none of the late pontiff's sympathetic and benevolent characteristics. He comes from a noble Piedmontese stock, and his nobility is shown in his haughty and austere bearing. He is not popular among his colleagues or the Romans, and his brusque manner has earned him the title of "the Piedmont bear."

News Spreads Rapidly.
Outside, however, the news of his holiness' death brought instant excitement instead of calm. At twenty minutes past 4 a man dashed madly across St. Peter's square, then quite empty. A second later another followed on a bicycle. Within a few seconds, as if by magic, newspaper men, gendarmes and messengers, running, driving and gesticulating, dashed to and from the portals of the Vatican.

Like a wireless message there flashed around the words, "He is dead."
Rubbing the afternoon sleep from their eyes, bare-headed men and women, many of them carrying babies, emerged from the darkened houses and cafes and besieged the doors of the Vatican. The transformation was complete. The quick movement and tense feeling of the rapidly gathering crowd now permeated where a few minutes before there had been no signs of life.

The French ambassador's carriage drove furiously from the Vatican and drew up at a nearby telegraph office. Without waiting for the horses to stop the ambassador jumped out and notified his government of the Pope's death. There soon followed the cardinals, who, with set faces, drove slowly homeward.

HAIL ENTAILS IMMENSE LOSS

Damage to Crops in Rock County, Minn., Amounts to $1,100,000—Storm Sweeps Iowa.

Luverne, Minn., July 21.—A disastrous hailstorm passed over the eastern portion of Rock county, destroying fully one-third of the entire crop in the county and entailing a loss approximately of $1,000,000. The storm, both in destructiveness and in area, was the worst and most extensive known in the northwest.

The storm is reported to have started at Watertown, S. D., over 100 miles north of this city, and to have extended to Sheldon, Iowa, forty-five miles southeast of here. It reached its most destructive state in this county, where 122 sections of grain are reported to be totally destroyed.

Storm's Area.
The area of the storm is reported to have been thirty miles wide at this point, extending to Worthington, but the worst destruction is between this city and Adrian, east of here fifteen miles, and between Edgerton, eighteen miles northeast of this city, and Ellsworth, eighteen miles southeast. In this area of 540 square miles entire crops, with the exception of a few pieces missed through the freak of the storm, are reported to be fairly beaten into the ground. In most places not a spear is left standing.

Corn stalks are cut close to the ground, while whole groves of trees are stripped as bare of leaves as in midwinter. Conservative estimates place the loss to this year's crop in this county alone at over $1,000,000. This does not take into account loss of seed or damage to trees, orchards, and buildings.

Iowa Crops Suffer.
Council Bluffs, Iowa, July 21.—Probably the worst wind, hail and rain storm of the season swept over a part of southwestern Iowa, destroying all crops in its path and leveling many buildings and trees. A number of injuries have been reported, but no fatalities, and no injuries that it is thought will prove fatal. Telegraph and telephone wires are down in all directions, and it is almost impossible to gain any information as to the severity of the storm in the country districts.

The greatest damage is reported from Atlantic, where the courthouse, Methodist church and a large brick store building in course of construction were wrecked.

Fred Ipsen had a leg broken by being blown from a load of hay.

L. W. Wheatley was seriously injured in a runaway caused by his team taking fright at the storm.

At Audubon the hailstorm was probably the most severe, and it is reported that crops of all kinds are totally destroyed.

Harlan reports many farm buildings demolished southeast of here, and that corn and small grain have been pounded into the ground and cannot possibly recover.

London, July 21.—The Norwegian police are anxious regarding an anarchist plot against Emperor William, who is cruising in Northern waters.

ARCHBISHOP KATZER DIES IN FOND DU LAC

Head of Catholic Church in Wisconsin Expires at Convent of St. Agnes.

Fond du Lac, Wis., July 21.—After an illness extending over a period of ten months, Archbishop Katzer passed away at St. Agnes convent in this city. At the bedside were Father Alphonse, his aged confessor; Vicar General C. F. Schinner, Father Kersten, his companion for twenty-seven years; Doctors Wiley and Fitzgibbon and the Mother Superior.

The archbishop came to Fond du Lac about four months ago for rest and treatment, but it was soon found there was no hope for him. A week ago his condition became alarming, last Saturday night it grew critical, and since that time his life has hung in the balance.

The archbishop retained all his faculties up to the last, and evinced a lively interest in the affairs of the diocese. It is believed that the work of the diocese and worry incident to it hastened the end.

Requiem mass will be sung at the convent Wednesday morning. In the afternoon the remains will be taken to Milwaukee, where they will lie in state at the cathedral till 10 o'clock Thursday morning. Solemn requiem mass will be observed, Mr. Falconio singing the requiem and Archbishop Patrick Ryan of Philadelphia preaching the sermon. Interment will be in St. Francis cemetery.

Archbishop Katzer has named the Rev. C. F. Schinner as administrator of the diocese till the appointment of a successor.

UNION MEN MAKE AN ASSAULT

Michigan Farm Hand Seriously Injured for Weeding Field Cheaply.

Owosso, Mich., July 21.—A lynching was narrowly averted on the farm of C. E. Hersey, west of this city. Archibald A. Evans, employed as a sugar-beet weeder, with his brother, agreed to weed a piece of field for 8 cents per row, the schedule being 12 cents.

A gang of union weederers set upon Evans and, tying him with rope, they dragged him across the field and through a barbed wire fence and pounded him unmercifully with their hoes, severely injuring him. They were about to hang him when the farmer and some of the neighbors came to Evans' assistance.

BEAVERS' COUNSEL SCORES ATTORNEY

Declares Client Is Entitled to Preliminary Hearing in Manhattan—Is Not Likely to Confess.

New York, July 21.—Counsel for George W. Beavers, former superintendent of the bureau of salaries and allowances of the postoffice department, against whom two indictments have been found by the Federal grand jury in Brooklyn, has made a statement saying that he had communicated with District Attorney Youngs, offering to produce Mr. Beavers before a United States commissioner for a preliminary hearing, but that Col. Youngs did not care to accept the offer.

The statement characterizes the course of the district attorney as irregular and unfair, "inasmuch as it denies him (Beavers) the opportunity of a preliminary hearing and precludes him from ascertaining anything of the nature of the charge against him until the date of his trial." It continues:

Will Not Confess.
"For some weeks past our client had resided in the borough of Manhattan, attending to private business matters and at the time the indictments were found against him in Brooklyn Mr. Beavers was in the borough of Manhattan. The circumstance entitles him to a preliminary hearing before the commissioner in this district."

"We may add that the reports, repeatedly circulated in the press, that Mr. Beavers has at any time offered to turn state's evidence are absolutely false. As counsel for Mr. Beavers we have advised him not to make any statement in reference to this matter. At the proper time he will take such action as may be necessary to demonstrate his innocence of the charges brought against him."

Machen's Time Extended.

Washington, July 21.—The District Supreme court has extended, until Aug. 1, the time within which August W. Machen, the former head of the postal free delivery system, may demur to the indictment against him.

District Attorney Thinks He Has the Necessary Evidence to Convict Suspected Man.

Whitehall, Wis., July 21.—Max Winkel has been arrested on the charge of having killed James Campbell May 24 at his farm near Arcadia. The affair was cloaked in mystery for a time, but a chain of circumstances which had several missing links was recently made complete by the efforts of District Attorney Cowie.

At the time of the murder the body was rolled into a slough about thirty rods from the house of the murdered man. It was discovered on the third day after the crime. The body when discovered was almost covered with water.

NEW ORDINANCES ARE INTRODUCED

REGARDING BICYCLES, FLA'ZMEN, AND SALOONS.

CLOSE FOURTH AVENUE BRIDGE

Too Dangerous for Teams—Bower City Bank Notes Ordered Paid, After Discussion.

Ordinances were introduced right and left last evening by the members of the common council. One had to do with saloons, another with the hoodooed Fourth avenue railroad crossing, and a third with bicycle riding. The saloon ordinance revised the present ordinance, passed in 1884, to conform with later statutory provisions; the railroad ordinance provided for the stationing of a flagman on the crossing referred to be the Milwaukee road; and the bicycle ordinance prohibited riding bicycles on the sidewalk. The ground for the last ordinance, is the fact that the prohibitory ordinance has become virtually a dead letter. All three ordinances were held over to the next meeting.

Bower City Bank Loans
The controversy which has frequently bobbed up during the past year regarding the right of aldermen to have financial dealings with the city, was probably given its quietus. City Attorney Burpee reiterated his opinion that the city was liable for the principal of the notes which the Bower City Bank holds, but not for the interest because Ald. Sale is a director of the bank. He held, that any alderman except Ald. Sale could vote on the subject. After he had stated his opinion, Ald. Lowell, who had been having a little fun by himself in objecting to the payment of the note, withdrew his objection and the notes were ordered paid without further parley. It is not probable, however, that notes will again be taken by banks whose officers hold city offices, as the application of the charter on this point appears to be both far reaching and binding.

New Saloon Licenses
Forty-five saloon licenses have now been granted, the names of Harry Ames and James Condon having been added to the list of saloon keepers. Ames will conduct a saloon at 5 North Franklin street. Condon's license was for his old place near the Five Points. The city attorney's opinion was called for on the proper method of collecting a poll tax. It will be given next meeting. The mayor appointed Stanley B. Smith, and Michael Hayes to succeed themselves as members of the library board, and H. L. McNamara to succeed Miss Gertrude Cobb, Miss Cobb having asked that she be not reappointed. The report of the library board, "saying that they were well pleased with themselves," as the alderman put it was accepted.

Bridge is Closed
Because of its insecure condition, the Fourth avenue bridge was ordered closed for repairs, save for foot passengers. The bridge fund is exhausted, and consequently no repairs can be made at once, but by a little extra exertion on the part of the aldermen it may be possible to complete the levy at the next council meeting, when the city will be in a less nearly bankrupt condition in several departments, and the needed repairs can then be made. It will cost six hundred dollars, said the street commissioner, to repair the bridge so as to lengthen its life four years. He said that several piles were worthless, and that the danger of an accident was great.

Street Improvement Bonds
Necessary steps were taken preliminary to the issuance of bonds to cover the North High and Harrison street improvements. Hose reel No. 2 of the fire department was ordered converted into a hose wagon. An order for the purchase of eighteen waste paper boxes and twelve garbage cans was held over for further consideration. The city attorney's opinion was requested regarding the legality of the city's accepting the offer of the voting machine company to furnish the city with machines. The assessors were given an extension of time to August 1 to complete their work.

POTATOE MARKET IS FLUCTUATING

Prices Go Up in Milwaukee, Owing to the Increased Demand.

The Wisconsin potato market has been acting queerly the past week. Prices of the tubers at Janesville, have remained the same right along but in other parts of the state, there is a marked shortage in the crop or present condition of the market. Notwithstanding that Milwaukee produce commission men are doing their best to secure shipments of old potatoes from Northern Wisconsin, there is a shortage in the supply of both old and new tubers. It is said that cold weather, together with floods in the South, have completely ruined the crops. Old potatoes are selling in the Milwaukee market for 50 cents a bushel, the price jumping to that figure yesterday—an advance of 40 cents.

RAILWAY CLERKS' LIVES HAZARDOUS

The Government Recognizes This, and Gives Sum of $1,000 to Family of Tease Killed.

Five railway mail clerks live in Janesville and nearly all of them run from this point. The occupation is a hazardous one and the mail clerk's place in no sinecure. The Janesville mail clerks are John C. Harlow, Frank Geegan, John M. Harrington, Ernest Kneipe, and Joseph M. Mahany. Congress after much hesitation on the subject has at last granted a lump sum of $1,000 to the family of every railway mail clerk killed in the line of duty. The law will extend its first benefits to those who lose their lives during the present year, and from this time on will bestow an equivalent of pensions, small though it be, upon the widows and children of a class of Uncle Sam's employees, which is exposed to extraordinary perils. Indeed, there are no other government servants—harring soldiers and sailors in war times, perhaps—whose occupation is so nearly dangerous.

Dangerous Work
There is no other occupation in the world so perilous as that of railway mail clerks. They number about 9,000 and ordinarily they get something like $1,200 a year, though their pay varies somewhat with length of service. It is not much considering the fact that they are constantly exposed to chances of death. During the last year, which broke the record for casualties, they were mixed up in 500 accidents on the rails. Nine of them were killed 88 of them were seriously injured, and 302 of them were slightly injured. The record was nothing very extraordinary, however. In 1901 mail clerks were caught in 285 accidents in which several were killed, 63 seriously and 229 slightly injured.

Fire, water, wind, the robber's pistol, are all dangers to be encountered by the railway mail clerk. Inasmuch as they spend their lives in traveling, they are bound to be mixed up in accidents occasionally, and whether they suffer or not, is a mere matter of chance. Quite commonly, they suffer, partly because the mail car is placed usually behind the tender, where it is reasonably sure, in case of collision to be smashed to kindling wood between the tender and the baggage car. Recently, however, an effort has been made to alter this arrangement, placing the baggage car behind the tender and thus it is hoped that the number of casualties will be lessened.

Soon Worn Out
Few railway clerks last longer than 20 years in the service, their work being done under such high tension, that even if they escape death, or disabling injury, they are soon worn out. At all times they are expected to defend the mails with their lives, attacks upon postal cars being not infrequent. If a clerk refuses to open the door in response to a demand by highwaymen, he must be prepared for an immediate fusillade of bullets, followed, perhaps, by an explosion of dynamite. Of course it is always the registered mail that the robbers want particularly.

Mail cars today are very different from what they were fifteen years ago—much more commodious, and built to resist collisions as far as possible. They are not proof against dynamite, but in many instances they have been able to withstand determined attacks by highwaymen. For the transportation of mail the government pays so much per hundred pounds, plus from $25 to $50 per day per car, according to the length of the vehicle.

The appropriation for this purpose for the current year is $5,104,960.

Michael Carmichael
"Character is what we are in the dark." is the statement made by the author, in introducing Michael Carmichael. The truthfulness of this statement is vividly portrayed in the story, which is extremely fascinating. It is an American story, with a plot and a moral so true to life, that while some of the situations are startling, none of them are impossible or over-drawn.

Michael Carmichael is a young attorney in a western mining town. He is popular and enjoys a good reputation, but in an hour of passion, when smarting under insult, he takes the life of the mayor, and flees from an infuriated mob. He is aided in the escape by an outlaw, who induces him to personate another man, who resembles him so closely as to make identification almost impossible. He is persuaded by intimidation to enter into a scheme to swindle an insurance company out of a large sum of money, and his death is authenticated by the remains of the man who resembles him.

He is saved, to himself and finally induced to confess, through the love of a girl who believes in him. The story is out of the ordinary and portrays features of a moral character, that are not often handled by the novelist. The author is Miles Sanders, and the publishers are Laird & Lee, of Chicago. Read the opening chapter, and you will not lay the book aside until finished.

Accident at Council Meeting
When Mayor Wilson called the common council to order last evening he did so with so much emphasis as to qualify the gavel for the repair shop. One segment of the gavel, which is the handiwork of the manual training department of the high school was loosened, but the work of making repairs will not be great.

DISCUSS PLANS FOR THE FACTORY

MEETING LAST NIGHT SHOWED MUCH INTEREST.

THE COST WOULD BE $70,000

Several Locations Were Talked Of For the Proposed Building, if the Company Comes.

Nothing definite was decided upon at the Business Men's meeting last evening concerning getting the Wells shoe factory to come to Janesville. Several propositions were discussed, and possible sites for the kind of a factory building necessary talked over.

Amount Necessary
There were about 35 present. Mr. Jackman figured that it would take in the neighborhood of $70,000 and this would have to be raised in the near future. He stated that he would be one of ten to put in $5,000. J. M. Bostwick said that he could be counted on for $2,000 and several others pledged themselves for like amounts. The lower cotton mills were spoken of as a possible location for the company, the chief objection being their distance from the residence part of the city.

One Proposition
Mr. Howe, speaking for the owners of the cotton mills, said that they would allow the building to go at one half of its appraised value. In its present condition, the owners further agreeing to pledge themselves for one sixth of the amount necessary to complete the building and put it in shape. The present cotton mill furnishes only about one half of the amount of floor space required by the Wells company so that an addition would have to be built, or the building made higher. Another objection to the lower cotton mill was the lack of basement room. The company needs a large basement to keep the hides in, as these must be kept in a damp place. This proposition of offering the cotton mill, if the company would take seems to be thought most favorably of by those present at the meeting.

Other sites suggested were the Bostwick land, 35 acres, on Pleasant street, and the Whitehead property, in the second ward. At the close of the meeting it was suggested that the company be told of the site available here and asked to send their representatives to Janesville to look over the ground. It was also proposed that a committee go to Chicago and talk with the members of the shoe company today, but it was not found practical for a committee to go, however, and the matter was left undecided.

Government Gets Monopoly.
After Jan. 1, 1908, the German government will prohibit the use of yellow and white phosphorus in the manufacture of matches. It is believed that nervous caused by the workmen handling phosphorus becomes hereditary. The government's report "on a safe and harmless process of match manufacture" practically turns match-making into a government monopoly after the foregoing date.

WHY CORN MUST ADVANCE IN PRICE

Every Report, Either State or Otherwise Points to This Fact.

Government and state reports show a decided deterioration in the condition of the crop of 1903, amounting to at least 25 per cent in Ohio, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas and Missouri. Smaller acreage than for four years, which, under the most favorable weather, would mean a reduced crop this year. Floods in Nebraska, Iowa, and Missouri have ruined a large portion of the earlier plantings.

Throughout the entire corn belt, planting was delayed on account of unfavorable weather, and as a consequence weather conditions for the next few weeks must be perfect to insure even a partial crop.

Reports from Kansas indicate that the crop has been greatly damaged by hot winds. On June 10th this year's crop was estimated at 1,675,000,000 bushels and the more conservative at 1,500,000,000 bushels. The total reserve supply in the country, at present is lower than it has been for ten years and nearly all grade corn in the country is now in the hands of the exporters and manufacturers.

Feeding interests demand more corn for the next few months than can possibly be supplied, were they able to secure every bushel of corn in the country. As a consequence they are in the markets and are bidding against the manufacturing interests for what corn they can secure. Farmer have been practically drained of all their corn.

STORM DAMAGED LEWIS HOMESTEAD

Swept in Through a Roof That Was Being Repaired—Discovered Yesterday.

When Mr. F. F. Lewis returned from Delavan Lake yesterday and visited his house which he is having repaired he found that the rain of last Friday had caused considerable damage. Before the wet weather the carpenters had been repairing a part of the roof, and the job not being finished by the time of the heavy downpour the latter part of the week much water found a way into the interior and did harm to the furniture and furnishings. The damage will amount to nearly two hundred dollars.

GAME WARDENS CAN DO GOOD

Minnesota Law Has Provision for Confiscated Game Going to the Poor Houses.

Here is a chance for Wisconsin game wardens to become public benefactors. The following is from the St. Paul Pioneer Press. The state game and fish commission has notified the game wardens of the state that under the law passed by the recent legislature all game and fish confiscated for violation of the laws must be donated to the charitable institutions of the state. Heretofore, confiscated fish and game was sold, the proceeds going into the state treasury.

The law does not specify any particular institutions, but the department interprets it to mean hospitals, infirmaries, corrective institutions, and charitable societies. The game warden is required to make an itemized report of the game confiscated, and to submit to the commission a receipt signed by the authorities of the institution receiving the game.

The first game donated in accordance with this law consisted of several moose confiscated in the northern part of the state. The moose were given to local poorhouses. Much of the game and fish confiscated in the vicinity of St. Paul is donated to the city hospital.

Given Equality With Men.
Italian justice disregards sex, it seems. A teacher in a boys' school at Florence, Signora Bartelli, has won her case against the city, which she sued because she was given less salary than men teachers doing the same work. She was also awarded arrears of salary due for eleven years.

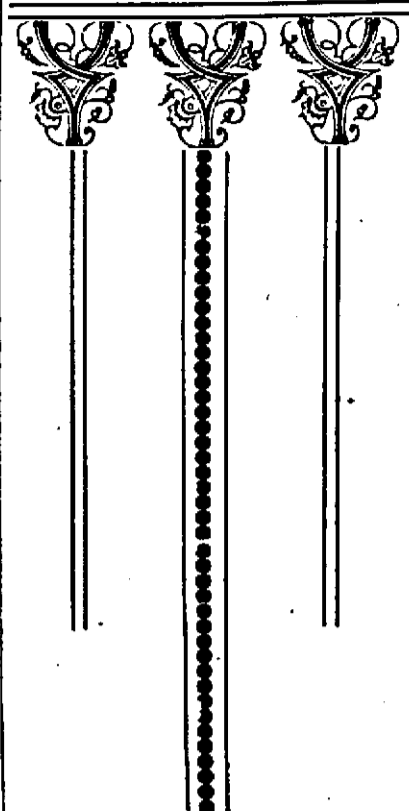

The Danger Line
The best detective story of recent date has just been issued from the press of Laird and Lee, Chicago. Author Lawrence L. Lynch is favorably known and his latest book, "The Danger Line" will add to his reputation as a forceful writer.

The plot is laid in New York, and the story has to do with crime in the ranks of the four hundred. The leading characters are Rex Knollys, a typical club man, and Jean Wyeth, a ward of a wealthy New Yorker, who meets his death, as does also his wife, at the close of a party given at their home and attended by the select.

The story introduces a number of suspected people in high life, and is very fascinating. The work of a private detective, and the city police force, the suspicion surrounding Miss Wyeth, and Mr. Knollys, and the final solution of the mystery hold the reader in close attention. The story will be enjoyed, and will be read with interest by a large clientele.

WISCONSIN WEATHER FORECAST

Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday. Local showers this afternoon, or tonight; cooler Wednesday.

OUR EXPORT TRADE.

While England is trying to solve the reason of its export trade's decline, and is denouncing Chamberlain for introducing the American remedy of protection and reciprocity, our own export trade is booming. Month by month it goes higher and is still in the ascendancy, even if J. J. Hill believed, several months ago, that he heard the clock of prosperity strike 12.

The export trade of the United States for the 11 months ending May 31, exceeded, by $32,014,375, the trade of the corresponding months of the year previous, which in itself was a high water mark, the aggregate figure for the entire export trade being $1,424,432,293. Other nations are sharing in this great international trade, which at the close of the present month will have passed the billion mark for the first time in our national history. Up to May 31 our import trade had reached the value of $942,957,194. We are doing more buying and more selling than ever before. If it were one sided, either in export or import trade, the situation would be unhealthy, but in the conservative growth of both classes of trade, is proof of a healthy tone prevailing in the entire commercial world.

More significant than all else is that the balance of trade is in our favor, to the extent of $380,896,099. For the month of May alone our exports exceeded $100,000,000, and our imports $78,000,000, a net trade balance of $22,000,000 for us in a single month. There is no better barometer than our export trade, and the balance in our favor is a good sign that the penetrative power of our commercial arm is still strong. Even with undigested securities yet to be absorbed, we will continue prosperous as long as our foreign market keeps our manufacturing working overtime, and the walking delegate allows the factories to work.

AN ATROCIOUS FAKE.

The story of peculiarly atrocious lynching at Devon, W. Va., telegraphed to the country from Bluefield, in the same state, a few days ago, turns out to be a peculiarly atrocious fake. There was no crime, no lynching; no negro was skinned or hacked to pieces; no foundation whatever for the narrative took with such particularity of scene and incident. Some "Smart Aleck" says the Pioneer Press, thought it would be a good joke thus to set a thrilling once more the nerves of a nation, not yet quieted after the real horrors of the Wilmington and Beville incidents; and so concocted the bloody lie and sent it along the shuddering wires. It went not only to every newspaper office in the United States, but it was cabled to Europe likewise, to afford further employment for tongues and pens which love to descend on the "survival of barbarism" in the American Republic.

But the performance lacked every element of humor. It was just as "funny" as would be the circulation of a lie reflecting on some good woman. The corner of such a lie would probably be sought out and made the subject of a horsewhipping, if nothing worse. The malicious villifier of a community of a nation, of humanity itself, should not be permitted to go about chuckling over his "joke". It is doubtful, however, if there is any law which will reach his case.

POPE LEO.

All Christendom today mourns the death of Pope Leo. He is the protestant or catholic the greatness of this good man who has gone to his reward appeals to him. Not since the days of Martin Luther has the head of the Catholic church been so beloved and so much thought of by Protestants as Pope Leo. His death takes from this world a true Christian spirit. An uncrowned saint. For two weeks past he has struggled against death. His weak emaciated form has struggled in vain to fight off that dread angel. Medical science has done all in its power to alleviate his sufferings and the prayers of thousands have gone to heaven in his behalf.

Patient through it all he died the Christian spirit he had lived and in dying he leaves behind him a memory which all the wealth of the world could not purchase.

He was a true Christian spirit. A man who lived the life he taught and died as he had lived. President Roosevelt through Secretary Hay fully expressed the sentiment of the whole world when he said, "I wish to express my profound sense of the loss which the Christian world has sustained in the death of His Holiness, Leo XIII. By his lofty character and his great learning and his exalted station he made his reign one of the most illustrious in the history of the Catholic church."

Pope Leo is dead, but his name will live after him for centuries. Placed in a peculiar position from the outset of his reign he has overcome all obstacles and by his broad mind and extensive knowledge of humanity he has added new luster to the name of the Roman church.

Pope Leo is dead and today all Rome and all the Catholic world grieve for his memory and pray for his soul. Leo is dead but his life's work lives after him and the new Pope chosen by the cardinals in the Sixtine Chapel will have but a thankless position to fill in trying the shoes of the successor of St. Peter who has just gone to his final reward.

LOCAL CONDITIONS.

With the past three days six persons in and near Janesville have faced death. Four by the waters of Rock river, one from the revolver of an insane man and one from self-inflicted injuries. One of the victims of the river was claimed in death but the other five escaped unharmed. Truly Janesville is becoming known in the polite outside world as a newsy breezy town.

BOYS BACK FROM PHANTOM LAKE

TEN JANESVILLE YOUNG MEN ATTENDED THE CONFERENCE.

THEY HAD AN EXCELLENT TIME

Good Swimming Added Much to the Pleasures of the Junior Y. M. C. A. Boys.

Yesterday afternoon, the junior department boys of the Y. M. C. A. who have been attending the Junior Conference at Phantom Lake during the last week, returned home and report that the meeting and camp was an entire success.

Several men who are very prominent in association circles were present at different times during the conference and pronounced the conference a most helpful one. Two international secretaries were present, Mr. Robinson, the international secretary of boys' work and Willis, of New York City. C. B. Willis, of Milwaukee was there during the entire camp and Mr. Adams, the Kenosha secretary was also present.

Janesville Second
The camp numbered fifty-four boys and men. Milwaukee lead in numbers, with eighteen boys and Janesville second with ten, which was considered a good representation, for a town of its size. Wallis Muns, of this city was elected permanent secretary of the Junior department conference the boys took notes and kept close track of the meetings, showing much interest and enthusiasm in the work. Many members agreed to take active work in the future to help in the association.

Beautiful Situation
The camp was beautifully situated on a high bluff overlooking the clear waters of Phantom lake and was an ideal place for an outing.

Life at the camp was semi-military the tents, ten of them, were placed in a row along the bluff. Reveille was sounded at 6:30 a. m. and breakfast was served half an hour later. Mess call sounded before meals and the boys formed line before the row of tents and marched to the dining room. Dinner was at 12:30 and supper at six, two cooks had charge of this department and the best of food was served. Taps sounded at 9:30 at night when everyone was at his bed and the camp was quiet.

Swimming Enjoyed
Several ball games were run off between the secretaries, the Milwaukee team and nine made up among the boys. Fishing was not especially good but the boys found the swimming almost perfect and enjoyed this part of the outing perhaps, as much as any.

Local Camp
The local Y. M. C. A. camp will be held at Lake Delavan beginning on August 11th, and much interest is being taken in the preparations for it.

JUNE GIRL'S PHILOSOPHY.

Judge Decides Assault and Battery Cases Six of One and Half Dozen of the Other.

Ray W. Podewell, proprietor of the Germania on North Academy street, is the first violator of the new ordinance prohibiting the sale of liquor in wine rooms or stalls. He was given a hearing before Judge Elfield in the municipal court this morning, and was given a fine of twenty-five dollars and costs.

An assault and battery case, in which William Nash made complaint against Paddy Mulcairn, came up in the same court. After hearing the tales of the two parties, His Honor decided that it was pretty nearly a standoff between them, and dismissed them both. The complaint grew out of a fight in the railroad yards.

BIG DAY FOR THE MISSISSIPPI CLUB

Two of the Most Important Events of the Season Are Scheduled for This Afternoon.

In no golf event of the season has interest been so exhibited comparative to that shown in today's matches. Since the semi-finals in the Richardson medal play determined the two men between whom possession of the trophy lay, the golfers have had the outcome of today's as the most fertile topic of speculation, backed by substantial wagers, the odds in money being placed on Brownell.

Leo Brownell has played a consistent and at times brilliant game, the fact that he has so rarely been off his form winning him a strong following for this day's match. From the outset of this season he has taken place at the head of the Mississippi team.

Collin C. McLean has in his favor a slight advantage in the handicap his ranking at 6 against Brownell at 4, giving him a single stroke on hole nine, on each round. In a close finish, where honors are evenly divided this stroke may be sufficient to turn the tide, although it is hardly anticipated that the medal will be won or lost on so narrow a margin.

The contest between the bachelors and benedicts is creating hardly less interest. For a series of years there has been an almost unbroken list of victories for the witless men, and their hope of adding another scalp is high. Probably about fifteen pairs will compete. The losers will be allowed to furnish the club with 3 sand boxes of a late pattern complete with water pail and ball cleaning brush.

For the ladies, an approaching and putting contest has been arranged. Attractive prizes have been provided.

DOINGS AT THE RAILWAY CENTER

Personals of Employees in the Local Yards and Along the Line.

The garden in the North-Western roundhouse park is looking very pretty this month. Clusters of Geraniums, nasturtiums and semitropical plants are grouped around the fountain, and set out in artistically placed flower beds in the lawn. The grass and flowers are growing finely.

A picnic of the North-Western division employees will be held at North Western Park North Fond du Lac on August 6th. Janesville employees of the road have received a letter, asking them to attend.

The elevated track in the coal sheds at the St. Paul yards has been extended about twenty feet over the sand house.

A number of the North-Western road officials are expected to visit the yards sometime Wednesday. Fireman John Gallup of the North-Western line reported for work this morning.

F. E. Pendle, Fond du Lac train master was in the city yesterday.

BRIEFLETS

The patience that is developed at the butt-end of a fish-pole seldom brings very large returns in the general affairs of life.

Fashionable women still permit their little daughters to play with dolls. This doubtless is because there are no dummy doggies on the market.

The scientists have discovered that laziness is a disease, but they will never find out how lazy people can be induced to take anything for it.

There are some things that men never learn. The one whose pretty wife tells him she is glad to have him stay at the club if he enjoys himself there is always dumfounded when the scandal comes out.

LONG SEARCH IS REWARDED

HUNT FOR BODY OF J. A. VERMILYA SUCCESSFUL.

WAS 25 RODS DOWN STREAM

Body Found with a Set Line—Will Be Shipped to His Home in Harvard—Relatives to Come.

Early this morning search for the body of J. A. Vermilya was resumed, but the searchers did not meet with success in their efforts until nearly ten-thirty o'clock. Nearly a dozen men in boats were employed in dragging the river. The efforts were directed principally at a point not far from the place where Vermilya was drowned yesterday afternoon. Finally two boats, manned by Al Melville, Julius Gramke, and E. L. Badger, rowed farther down stream letting a long set line, to which dozens of small hooks were fastened drag between them.

Found With Setline
Nearly twenty-five rods, directly south of the point of the sandbar, where Vermilya stepped off and went over his depth, one of the hooks fastened itself in the body of the dead young man. The body was nearly in the center of the river, at a point directly back of the Palmer Memorial hospital, in the same treacherous hole which has claimed its victim almost annually for years.

Funeral at Harvard
George Vermilya, father of the dead boy, who is a baggage man, and Lawrence E. Vermilya, his brother, a brakeman, were in the city last evening assisting in the search, but they returned to their home in Harvard this morning. Until they return and give directions, the body will remain at Kimball's undertaking rooms, where it was taken this morning, but it will undoubtedly be taken to Harvard this evening for burial.

By arrangement with Daniel Frohman, with whose interests he has long been identified, John J. Donnelly will have business charge of the play's engagements.

As has already been announced, William Lewers, formerly a member of Miss Julia Marlowe's "The Cavaliers" company, will be leading man for Miss Galland. He was to have appeared with Mrs. Langtry next season as her leading man, but she consented to release him. Mr. Lewers will have the part of Sir John Manners.

For the role of Sir George Vernon, Dorothy's father, a strong character part, Frank Losee has been engaged. It is the aim of the management to make the play one of the most elaborate productions of its kind to be presented during the coming season.

A recent dispatch from Paris says: "Arrangements have been concluded at the Odeon theater for the production next season of 'The Second Mrs. Tanguay' in French. The part of Paula Tanguay will be played by Bertha Bady. The translation of Pinner's play for the Odeon will not be the one presented by Mme. Hading at the Coronet theater in London, but by Vicomte Robert d'Hunieres, who translated Kipling's stories. His mother, who was Nora Kelly, was the daughter of a prominent New Yorker."

"Albert Bressard, probably the greatest decorative artist living, has finished a sketch of the ceiling for the Theatre Francaise ordered by Chaumie, minister of fine arts, after the destruction of the interior by fire. It represents the sun typified by Apollo throwing rays on Cornelle, Racine, Moliere and Victor Hugo."

"In the foreground kneels the figure of Truth, indicating that everything is based on truth. Bressard intends to paint and carry out the work with his own hands. He says the coloring will be sumptuous and daring. The key is bright blue, violet and yellow in Bressard's typical style."

James A. Hackett has announced that the name of Victor Mapes' new play, in which he will next season be seen, will be "Alexander the Great" and will be based upon the life of that famous Greek. Mr. Hackett will appear in the title role and will surround himself with a company of more than 350 people. With this elaborate and costly production Mr. Hackett in the fall will open Weber & Fields' new Globe theater at Boston, a large and commodious theater of the best and most improved appointments, which will belong to the chain controlled by the Independent Booking agency.

Importance of Cup Races.

It is its history that makes the America's cup so important to us. It is incomparably the most interesting sporting trophy in existence. An American horse may win the Derby. There is glory in that, but it is hardly a national triumph. An American crew may some time win the Henley regatta. We shall be pleased, but not overexcited. But the British yacht that carried back the America's cup would take away something that we need to make us comfortable, and we would never rest easy until we got it back. It would be no bad thing for sport if the cup were lifted, for the scramble to recover it would be worth seeing. But for us Americans the cup affords thrills enough where it is.

A WAR MESSAGE

[Original.]

During the civil war Jane St. Clair, a young girl of nineteen, was put in charge of a telegraph office in one of the stations on the Louisville and Nashville railroad in Kentucky. The people of that state were divided in their sympathies between the Confederate and Union sides, most of them being Confederates. Jenny St. Clair, however, belonged to a staunch Union family and was herself a Unionist.

Those were times when raids were made by the Confederates behind the Union armies for the purpose of harassing their enemy's communications. Jenny's post was far in the rear of the Union advance, but she knew that at any time the town was liable to be captured and the first place the raiders always took possession of was the telegraph office. Jenny used to wonder what she should do if they swooped down upon her office, and her thoughts finally resulted in a plan of action in such an event.

One night a cavalry force commanded by the famous Confederate partisan leader, General John Morgan, came riding into town and half a dozen men under an officer went straight for the telegraph office on the second floor of a small frame building. Dismounting, they hurried upstairs and threw open the door, with drawn revolvers ready to cover the operator; but there was no operator there. A kerosene lamp was burning on the table to which the telegraph instrument was fixed. There were several chairs, a looking glass hanging to the wall and a lounge. These were every article in the room except a woman's hat.

"Reckon this office is run by a gal," said one of the men. "She heard us coming and lit out."

"Reckon," replied the officer.

He went to the telegraph table and, sitting down, began to click the key. He called a neighboring town and received a signal which he knew came from a Confederate who had captured the telegraph station.

"Tell the general," came the words, "that we have just taken this place and are ready to move in conjunction with him against the M. railroad bridge and trestlework. We will attack the bridge guard at the north end at 5 o'clock in the morning and expect General Morgan to do the same on the south end."

The officer called one of his men and gave him the message to take to General Morgan. Then he sprawled himself on the lounge, falling into a doze.

There is a half awake, half asleep condition that we have all experienced in which one hears a sound, not knowing whether he really hears it or not. The officer thought he heard a clicking. Telegraph keys are continually chattering, and the key on the table was no exception. But it did not appear to the dozer that the sound was on the table. It was rather down on the floor and at times directly beneath him. Presently he got himself awake and started up to listen. All was perfectly silent. Lying down, he was soon in the same semiconscious condition as before—he dared not go to sleep while on duty—and now the clicking recommenced in a more pronounced manner, and it seemed to be in the head of the lounge on which he rested. He began to take note of the letters and read the message he had just received. It was very singular, he thought, that it could be clicking in his pillow. Was he not dreaming? Or was he really receiving the message? Or was its sender repeating it to make sure of accuracy?

Presently the messenger returned with a dispatch which stated that all was right and General Morgan would be on hand. This was sent over the wire. Then the officer unscrewed the instrument and, taking it with him, rode away with his men.

The next morning, when the two detachments of Confederate cavalry made a joint attack on the bridge and trestle, as agreed, they found an overwhelming force drawn up at both ends to oppose them. They proceeded with the attack, only to draw off with a number of killed and wounded and the loss of some prisoners. Among the latter was the officer who had received the telegraph message for General Morgan the night before. The captured officers were taken to the Union general's headquarters.

"Which of you did the telegraphing last night from R?" asked the general.

"I," said one of them.

"Well, you needn't take the trouble to use any of our telegraph stations again. Our operators are too smart for you."

"How so, general?"

"Orderly, ask Miss St. Clair to step in here."

Jenny St. Clair came in, looking radiant.

"Tell the gentleman how you outwitted him," said the general.

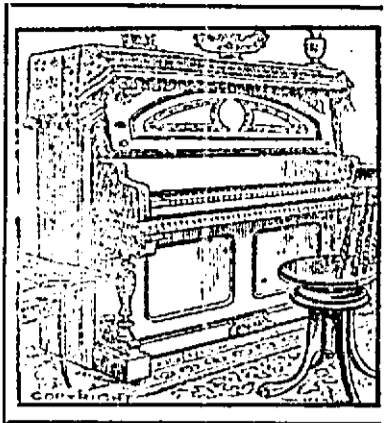

"The lounge you were lying on," said Jenny, "you may remember, was not open underneath. It was hollow and there was a lid to it. Thinking I might some time receive a call from you, I had fixed an instrument inside the lounge, and when I heard you chatter up to the office, got in and closed the lid over me. I heard the message you received and transmitted it to the general here. What I feared was that you would hear the click of my instrument."

"I did," said the officer, opening his eyes, "but being tired with hard riding I was drowsy and thought it was a repetition."

Jenny received a large reward from the government she had so well served, and married a colonel in the Union army. HENRY J. WHITFORD.

WE DO... AS WE ADVERTISE

On all pianos sold by us of late you will find that in every instance we have not misstated one item. People who have purchased of us have been more than pleased and if anything we have given them more than we have advertised.

For instance that second hand Chickering Piano that originally cost $1,000. We advertised and sold at $75 one hour after the announcement appeared in the Gazette. In all we had (5) inquiries for it and the purchaser could to-day double her money on the investment. Watch for our next bargain.
